

ALMA HUMANA!

Contributions to human dignity

27 - 31 July 2022

Conference at the Goetheanum, Switzerland

With great joy, we invite you to the second Alma Humana! conference at the Goetheanum, a congress organised by the Country Societies in Latin-Romance speaking regions. This year's central theme will be human dignity.

Human dignity is praised today as a precious commodity, but it is repeatedly violated, despised and forgotten.

What is human dignity? Where and how is it forgotten, misunderstood and violated? What can communities contribute to the cultivation of human dignity, even when external circumstances make it very difficult? What are the concrete and specific realities and tasks of the various Romance-speaking countries concerning this, including women and children's rights, the elderly, the right to education, health care, healthy food, work, and much more?

Anthroposophy gives the possibility to recognise human dignity as an expression of the spiritual core of the human being and to find ways of becoming responsible for realising it.

During the conference, spaces for dialogue between representatives of public human rights organisations and representatives of anthroposophical initiatives will occur. In addition, groups and artists from the various language regions will offer artistic performances. Translators will provide simultaneous translations in Spanish, Italian, French, Portuguese, English and German.

For people coming from far away countries with limited resources, there are possibilities to receive financial support to cover travel expenses. To ask for support, please get in touch with the General Anthroposophical Section: allgemeinesektion@goetheanum.ch

We are delighted to welcome you at the Goetheanum!

*From the organizing group,
Constanza Kaliks, Clara Steinemann
and René Becker*
